Excerpt: . lah, so well known for his hatred to the English, and his conduct to his prisoners on the taking of Calcutta in 1756*. This is an oblong building, crowned with five domes; the center one much larger than the others, and the two extremes less than the intermediate. This pyramidal form is usual in * When the fort of Calcutta was closely besieged by Suraja Dowlah, Mr. Drake, the governor, and many others, witli several ladies of the settlement, escaped to the English ships then lying off the town, and which ships fell down as low as Fulta, one third of the distance to the mouth of the river, where they remained for seven months in the greatest distress, both for provisions and every other article of necessaries. Mr. Gregory, a gentleman since well known in the political world, and particularly for his knowledge in India affairs, and many years a Director of the East-India Company in London, ventured in a very heavy gale of wind, in a country boat, to pass Calcutta, and proceeded to Chardenagore, to solicit assistance from the French governor, who received him with all the personal politeness that is the mark of that nation, but without offering any thing to remove the distress of the English at Fulta. From the French Mr. Gregory proceeded to the Dutch settlement at Chinsurah, where he was received with unaffected good manners and friendliness. After relating the distresses his countrymen laboured under,...
