Erser and Pond Publishers Ltd. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 268 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.8in. Summary: A gripping thriller about scientists who want to clone Jesus, opponents who want to stop them, competitors who want to steal the research, and concerned individuals who point out the serious consequences of such an undertaking. Very interesting thoughts about science and Christianity, the origin of the species, and the meaning of life. Fascinating surprise ending. Story line: When linguist Lisa Maxwell goes to the Basque Country to seek the origin of the Basque language, she soon finds herself tangled up with some enigmatic characters in a small mountain village. Who is stealing relics from the major cathedrals in Europe Who is the physician that flies in by helicopter to examine some little boys, and what does he want from them What sort of research is being carried out in the state-of-the-art biotechnology laboratory Soon more questions begin to emerge. Who are the Basques, and why is their language unique Are they a race apart What happened to humans after the Fall What role does Rh-negative blood play here How do genetics and linguistics combine to unlock the mystery of the origin of humankind Can creation be reconciled with evolution in a brand new way Is it possible to clone Jesus If not, why not If so, what are the consequences Sonia Harrison Jones, a PhD from Harvard in Romance Languages, presents some creative, intelligent answers to these questions and many others in this fascinating first novel. What readers are saying: I LOVED it! For me the test of a good book is that when Im not reading it Im thinking about it and trying to figure out when I will be able to get back to it, and that definitely happened...
