D: Read Before the Vermont Historical Society, in the Representatives Hall, October 11, 1870 Mr. President: - I see by the public announcement that the designated service for this evening is the Annual Address. I have prepared myself to respond to this announcement only by reading a memorial paper. But before proceeding, it seems fitting that I should allude to the bereavement which this Society has recently experienced in the sudden and untimely death of its President, who was also, for all the years of his manhood, one of its most earnest and efficient members, officers, and workers. This event, following so soon upon the death of his worthy and distinguished predecessor in the presidential office - his friend and most zealous and successful co-worker in realizing to the public the peculiar purposes which the Society was designed to serve, - is doubly potent as a cause for sorrow, and doubly potent as an admonition to the living, how certain is death, and how uncertain the continuance of life and work on earth. In such an hour as he thought not, even as a thief in the night, the Son of Man came. May the living lay it to heart.
